

Hollis McLoughlin

Hollis McLoughlin recently retired from FreddieMac where he served as Senior Vice President of Corporate Communications/External Relations and Chief of Staff. Prior to that, he served as Chief Operating Officer of two private equity-backed operating companies. He was one of the founding partners of Darby Overseas, a private equity partnership based in Washington, DC. He was appointed Assistant Secretary of the Treasury under President George H.W. Bush, serving as Counselor to the Secretary. He also has been a senior executive at Purolator Courier, an overnight delivery company and privately held transportation company. He served as chief of staff to Sen. Nicholas Brady, R-N.J., in 1982 and to Rep. Millicent Fenwick, R-N.J., from 1975 to 1979. He graduated from Harvard University. Hollis is a trustee of the National Building Museum and a former board member of the Washington Tennis and Education Foundation. He is a member and former Governor of the Metropolitan Club of the City of Washington.